India's Response to Global Climate Change: Action, Adaptation, and Achievement

June 5-6, 2026

Concept Note :

India has emerged as a global leader in addressing climate change, with a strong commitment to sustainable development and environmental protection. As the country prepares to achieve its Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) by 2030, it is imperative to showcase India's initiatives and progress in addressing climate change, while highlighting the country's achievements and challenges. India's efforts to combat climate change are multifaceted and encompass various initiatives, including the Swachh Bharat Mission, which aims to achieve universal sanitation coverage and promote sustainable waste management practices. The country's ambitious renewable energy targets, with a focus on solar and wind energy, have positioned India as a global leader in clean energy production. Additionally, initiatives like the National Mission for Clean Ganga and the Green India Mission demonstrate the country's commitment to restoring its natural resources and promoting ecological balance. The country's Nationally Determined Contributions (NDCs) under the Paris Agreement outline India's commitment to reducing greenhouse gas emissions and transitioning to a low-carbon economy. India's efforts to promote sustainable agriculture practices, conserve biodiversity, and enhance climate resilience are also noteworthy.

One of India's significant contributions to global climate action is its commitment to reducing greenhouse gas emissions. The country has set a target of reducing its emissions intensity by 33-35% by 2030, compared to 2005 levels. India's initiatives, such as the promotion of electric vehicles, energy-efficient buildings, and sustainable transportation systems, are expected to play a crucial role in achieving this target. The melting of glaciers in the Himalayas is a pressing concern, and India is taking proactive measures to address this issue. The country has launched several initiatives to monitor glacier health, promote sustainable tourism, and support research and development in this area. The National Mission on Himalayan Studies aims to conserve and sustainably manage the Himalayan ecosystem, while the Indian Himalayan Region (IHR) initiative focuses on promoting sustainable development and climate resilience in the region. India is also combating desertification and land degradation through initiatives like the Desert Ecosystem Management Plan and the National Action Programme to Combat Desertification. These efforts aim to restore degraded lands, promote sustainable agriculture practices, and support the livelihoods of communities dependent on these ecosystems.

In totality, the country's National Action Plan on Climate Change (NAPCC) provides a comprehensive framework for addressing climate change, with a focus on adaptation, mitigation, and sustainable development.

This national seminar aims to bring together experts, policymakers, and stakeholders to discuss India's response to global climate change, focusing on action, adaptation, and achievement. The seminar will provide a platform for sharing best practices, showcasing innovative solutions, and discussing policy frameworks that support India's climate change initiatives.

The seminar will provide a unique opportunity for stakeholders to engage with policymakers, experts, and practitioners, and contribute to the development of India's climate change agenda. We look forward to your participation in this important event and exploring ways to collaborate towards a climate-resilient and sustainable India.
